PulteGroup's Built to Honor Program Awards Mortgage-Free Home to United States Marine Corps Veteran and Family in San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO – March 21, 2022 – U.S. Marine Corps Sergeant Jonathan Stephenson and his family received the keys to their new mortgage-free home in The Overlook at Creekside community. Located in New Braunfels, Texas, the new home was donated through PulteGroup's Built to Honor® program, which provides the gift of a new home to wounded veterans and their families across the country.

After breaking ground on their future homesite in August, Sergeant Stephenson, his wife Alexandria and their three young children saw their completed new home for the very first time during a special dedication ceremony. To the family's surprise, the home was fully furnished, including personalized bedrooms for each child to call their own.

"It has been an honor for us to build a more accessible home that was specially designed to improve Sergeant Stephenson's quality of life," said Shawn Seaberg, Division President of PulteGroup's San Antonio Division. "We are thrilled to welcome him and his family home and are thankful for the generosity of our trade partners, suppliers and the local community that helped to make it happen."

The Stephenson family's new 2,097 square-foot, 4-bedroom, 2-bathroom home was dedicated in partnership with Operation FINALLY HOME, a non-profit organization with a mission to build hope through providing custom-built, mortgage-free homes, transitional housing, and home modifications to veterans, first responders and their families.
