

EA Takes to the Pitch with the Sounds of FIFA 07; International In-Game Soundtrack Takes Players Around the Globe

REDWOOD CITY, Calif., Aug 18, 2006 (BUSINESS WIRE) -- Brazil, France, England or the USA... who has the most die-hard soccer fans? Representing 21 different countries, Electronic Arts (NASDAQ:ERTS) today rang in the sound of the soccer season by revealing the 40 songs that will be featured in FIFA 07. Launching in over 15 languages and 40 countries worldwide, FIFA 07 will bring the superstar athletes, stadiums and music of your every competitor into your hands.

Every year, FIFA Soccer boasts an unparalleled mix of music gathered from around the globe, hand picked to represent each country and its passion for soccer. This year, the soundtrack is highlighted by songs from Bersuit Vergarabat (Argentina), caBas (Colombia), Carlos Jean (Spain), Epik High (Korea), Keane (UK), Muse (UK), Plastilina Mosh (Mexico), Shiny Toy Guns (USA), Seu Jorge (Brazil) and The Feeling (UK).

"No sport is more celebrated around the world than soccer, so what better way to live the magic of the real-world game than by listening to the anthems and songs that will be discovered by soccer fans worldwide as they play through the season," said Steve Schnur, Worldwide Executive of Music and Music Marketing.
