WesBanco, Inc. to Join S&P SmallCap 600 Index

2026-06-17

WHEELING, W.Va., June 17, 2026 /PRNewswire/ -- WesBanco, Inc. (Nasdaq: WSBC), a diversified, multi-state bank holding company, today announced that it will be added to the S&P SmallCap 600 Index, effective after close of market on Thursday, June 18, 2026.

The S&P SmallCap 600 Index is a widely followed benchmark that measures the performance of 600 publicly traded companies in the small-cap segment of the U.S. equity market. Index members are selected based on criteria including financial viability, market capitalization, liquidity and public float—making it a key indicator of small-cap company performance.

"We are pleased to be included in the S&P SmallCap 600 Index, which reflects WesBanco's strong financial performance, disciplined growth strategy, and ongoing commitment to delivering long-term value for our shareholders," said Jeff Jackson, President and Chief Executive Officer, WesBanco. "This milestone highlights the dedication of our employees and the trust of our customers across the ten states we serve. We believe inclusion in this index will enhance our visibility within the investment community and support the continued expansion of our shareholder base."

Inclusion in the S&P SmallCap 600 is often associated with increased trading liquidity and broader investor awareness, as index funds and other investment vehicles that track the benchmark adjust their portfolios.

WesBanco's inclusion reflects its consistent financial performance and disciplined execution, including loan growth CAGR of seven percent since 2021, significant year-over-year EPS growth, and a strong return on tangible common equity ratio. Additionally, the Company's successful acquisition and integration of Premier Financial Corp. in 2025, has strengthened the Company's scale, market presence, and long-term growth profile.
