

Infinity's CEO Zachary Arnold Honored as 2021 Young Gun by WV Executive Magazine

2020-11-18

Our team at Infinity Natural Resources is proud to announce that our CEO, Zachary Arnold, has been selected as a 2020 Young Gun by the West Virginia Executive Magazine. And not only that, but was also selected as the cover picture, representing this year's class on the magazine. From our entire team at Infinity, we congratulate you on this achievement, and appreciate your continued leadership, vision, and drive.

For those who are not familiar, or who have not seen this year's copy of the WV Executive Young Gun Awards, be sure to click here to read the full article.

In regards to the award, here is how the WV Executive Magazine describes what it takes to be selected for this recognition.

What does it take to become part of West Virginia Executive (WVE) magazine's elite history of Young Guns? It's more than just a nomination based on career success and a dedication to community service—though these certainly factor in. It involves a heart of gold mixed with the Mountaineer spirit. WVE recognizes the determination it takes to balance service to one's community with simultaneous career excellence while also prioritizing family.

Perhaps as synonymous as gold and blue and green and white in the Mountain State is WVE and Young Guns: these two titles have gone hand in hand for more than 20 years. The Young Guns honors program was created to shine a light on those who selflessly serve others and work hard to ensure the Mountain State excels at all levels. These standouts rarely stop to consider themselves, focusing instead on how their work will affect the lives of others. WVE works to give these Young Guns, who personify the very ideals that make West Virginia so special, a moment in the spotlight and the recognition they deserve.